

Surfacing Case Study

AJ Cornall, Barnes Road, Skelmersdale

The team

Why choose Argyle?

Proven Expertise: Argyle is trusted by industry contractors like AJ Cornall to deliver final surfacing solutions that exceed standards required for local authority adoption.

Attention to Quality: Our team ensures every stage of the surfacing process meets rigorous specifications, ensuring longevity and a high-quality finish.

Commitment to Safety and Communication: We work closely with clients, residents, and local authorities to minimise disruption and maintain a safe working environment.

OUR Objectives

Argyle were tasked to complete final surfacing works on the adoptable highway of a 60-plot development in Skelmersdale for AJ Cornall and Breck Homes, delivering a finish that residents can be proud of and that meets the requirements for handover to the local authority.

OUR Challenges

The primary challenges involved minimising disruption to residents on a fully occupied site and adhering to strict local authority standards. Ensuring safety for both the site team and public was paramount, while meeting the quality standards expected by Lancashire County Council.

OUR Solutions

Through careful planning, we implemented a robust traffic management system and established clear communication with residents and stakeholders. Detailed surveys of the site conditions allowed us to identify any potential issues early on. The final surface preparation included a tanker-applied bond coat, followed by a Hot Rolled Asphalt wearing course. Materials were rigorously tested to guarantee compliance with quality specifications.
